THE CHALLENGE OF YOUTH

Mrs. Cheesman's address on "The Challenge of Youth" home and school have a to discuss, that of the youth, and the ethics of growing up. To-day, as never before, the home and school are co-operating, and as their points & agreement are increasing, their points of difference are decreasing. The school is beginning to see that it has a staunch ally and friend in the home. Youth in the present day is not up to standard. Thoughtlessness, triviality and irresoluteness play too important is part in the life of the youth. The school is provention if the people of to-day could undergo a baje tism of common sense, it would account plish more than all our studies and chas,
